

(R)eflective Learning: The Experience of Journaling from Campus Edition to Bb Learn

Kevin Ketchner, Cline Library & John J. Doherty, e-Learning Center at Northern Arizona University

Reflective learning through journaling is an insightful instructional activity important to the creation of significant learning experiences. Online journal activities in face-to-face, hybrid, or online pedagogy enhances student critical reflection, self-reflection, thinking, and meta-cognition through self evaluation of their own individual knowledge, beliefs, feelings, and habits of learning in relation to the themes and concepts of the class.

e-Learning Center
(928) 523-1629
Kevin.Ketchner@nau.edu
John.Doherty@nau.edu

